Job Description – Full-Time Tenure-track Faculty
Interactive Arts and Media Department
Programming

Columbia College Chicago actively promotes diversity, equity, and inclusion as vitally important to its present and future success. These principles are essential to the educational experiences of our students, staff and faculty.

The Interactive Arts and Media Department of Columbia College seeks applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position in Programming beginning August 2023. Candidates will be expected to teach current and emerging programming curriculum and contribute to both undergraduate and graduate instruction. Candidates will demonstrate technical and critical expertise in programming matched by a vibrant, complementary practice that directly contributes to the broader creative portfolio of the School of Media Arts. Experience should include fluency in basic, intermediate, and advanced concepts and pedagogical methods related to programming. Applicants are expected to understand the core elements of programming and should be prepared to teach both introductory and advanced courses in programming.

In addition to expertise in their field, successful candidates must exhibit excellent teaching and scholarly credentials and be passionate about undergraduate and graduate education. Intellectual curiosity and the ability to communicate and work well in teams and in a dynamic environment are critical. We are particularly interested in candidates who can fundamentally enhance our curriculum by fostering a more diverse environment in Programming and help realize narratives and experiences produced by a highly diverse student body. We are especially interested in candidates who can teach programming for a wide range of applied environments, platforms and uses, and equip our students for careers in a wide range of media, information and creative industries.

Interactive Arts and Media serves as a research and development hub for the School of Media Arts, with programs that include Animation, Game Design, Programming and User Experience, and connects emerging media forms to other areas of scholarly inquiry and practice, including film, television, audio arts, advertising and branded entertainment, and journalism. We are interested in candidates who can further the cross-industrial application of new technologies within convergent digital workflows.

As a metropolitan campus with deep connections to Chicago's diverse media and information landscape, faculty and students in the School of Media Arts are part of a connected city-wide learning laboratory that prepares them to be empowered voices, deeply skilled artists and cultural producers, and leaders in the future of our collective media industries. Columbia sits within a robust media production ecosystem and provides opportunities for candidates to partner with a range of industries and non-profit organizations across the greater Chicago area.

Duties & Responsibilities

- Teach at the undergraduate and, as appropriate, at the graduate level in areas assigned by the Department Chair.
- Deliver lesson plans in accordance with the learning objectives set for the course, including practical skills, methods, theories and techniques.
- Engage with the broader scholarly and professional communities.
- Supervise, advise and mentor students.

- Contribute to the development, planning and implementation of a high-quality curriculum.
- Commit to continuing professional development.
- Provide service to the college, profession and community.
- Actively follow and promote Columbia College Chicago policies.

Required Qualifications

- PhD, MFA or other terminal degree in Programming, Computer and Information Sciences, or related field. Candidates with an MS or MA will also be considered. Candidates with a post-secondary degree and equivalent professional experience will be considered in lieu of a terminal degree for a teaching-track appointment. Experienced professional practitioners who do not possess a terminal degree are still encouraged to apply.

Desired Qualifications

- Professional experience and college teaching experience are highly desirable where applicable.

Application

To apply for this position, submit the following materials online:

- A letter outlining the applicant's background, qualifications and vision for the position.
- A curriculum vitae.
- A portfolio with links to work samples.
- An Evidence of Inclusive Excellence Statement describing actions you have taken to support and advance diversity, equity, access and inclusion in service, teaching, or research/creative activity. Please be succinct with your response.
- Contact information for three references. References will not be contacted without prior consultation with the applicant.

We seek individuals with a demonstrated ability to work with students from a wide range of social and cultural backgrounds, and whose creative, scholarly and/or professional work aligns with our commitment to dismantling systems of privilege and oppression. All faculty members are expected to advance the College's DEI mission. For more information on the office of Academic Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion please visit: colum.edu/diversity.

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. For best consideration, apply by November 28, 2022.

This job description is not designed to cover or contain a comprehensive listing of activities, duties, or responsibilities required of the employee and is subject to change based on the needs of the department and/or college.

About the College

Columbia College Chicago is a private not-for-profit college for creatives serving nearly 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students. Columbia College is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission.
